TECHNOLOGY

Advancing Conservative Aesthetics and Material Characteristics in Digital Restorative Dentistry

Dr. Ashton A. Prince presents a case using CAD/CAM in-office technology to showcase a new material which is designed for indirect restorations needing an aesthetic touch in areas where mechanical loads and forces are light.

RESTORATIVE

Managing Catastrophic Anterior Fracture in a High-Smile Patient: Difficult Choices After Trauma

Dr. John Highsmith shows us a dramatic case where a patient fell and destroyed a recently completed anterior reconstruction. Rather than extractions, he carefully rebuilt the teeth with multiple disciplines.

IMPLANTS

Practical Digital Workflow in Creating Overdentures

Drs. Timothy F. Kosinski and Stephanie Tilley go through the steps of diagnosis, planning, and treatment protocols in creating successful overdentures. The advantages of the use of locators is discussed regarding function and maintenance.

Chairside Tomosynthesis in Implant Dentistry: Closing the Intraoperative Imaging Gap

Drs. David Hansen and Gregori M. Kurtzman discuss what happens when critical imaging decisions arise after surgery has begun. This article explores how chairside tomosynthesis can bridge the intraoperative imaging gap by providing immediate, focused 3D imaging at the point of care, helping clinicians verify implant positioning, assess anatomy, and maintain surgical workflow without interrupting treatment.
